FRAUDULENT SUICIDE PACT WITH HUSBAND LED "PET" MAGILL TO TAKE HER OWN LIFE

THIS IS CASE OF THE STATE, SAYS HERRICK

DAMAGING EVIDENCE BROUGHT OUT BEFORE GRAND JURY

ONE POINT FOR THE DEFENSE

Chicago Chemists Say Chloroform,
Not Strychnine, Caused
Death of Woman

CLINTON, Ill., July 31.—According to the Chicago chemists who examined Mrs. "Pet" Magill's organs, death was due to chloroform, no traces of strychnine being found. This is a point for the defense, as it was charged that strychnine was used by the slayers of the woman.

The announcement of the analysis was made by Prosecutor Herrick, who said: "The chemists report will not weaken our case; we contend a suicide pact existed between Magill and his wife. The law makes it murder if one person deceives another in such a pact. That will be our case."

The state's drag-net brought in results yesterday, the haul containing more wheat than chaff.

The testimony indicated that Fred Magill and Fay Graham, a night or two before the death of Pet Magill, went to Bloomington, remained all night at a third-rate hotel, concocted the poison plot, purchased the drug there and then returned to the Magill home in Clinton.

Testimony was offered showing that Fred Magill talked to various neighbors about his wife dying and that on the day she was found dead, in answer to a question, he flippantly remarked: "I guess she killed herself because she was near-sighted." That Magill visited the local cemetery some time before Pet died and picked out two graves, which he is alleged to have said were for himself and Pet; that he was heard to say on the day of the funeral: "I already feel the hangman's rope around my neck."

The alleged visit of Magill and Fay Graham to Bloomington shortly before Pet Magill died is said to have been wrong from an unwilling witness, the proprietor of an obscure hotel in that city.

Several witnesses informed the special grand jury that they had heard Magill speak in a peculiar way of the possible death of his wife.

G. S. Woodford, a detective employed by the state, is said to have discovered Marguerite Magill's whereabouts and the prosecution will endeavor to force the girl to testify. Marguerite is reported to have made a mystifying remark to a friend a few hours after her mother died. The woman's remains having been cared for and dressed, Marguerite was asked if she would like to look at her mother. She is said to have made this answer, "No, no, I do not want to see her again. I saw her all doubled up once and that was enough."

John Hinzky, an employee of the firm of Marsh & Company, who have the contract for the building of the new bridge in the Pettibone lagoon, received a severe cut in the leg with an adz while cutting a piling this morning and will probably be laid up for several days. Mr. Hinzky was cutting a piling when the adz slipped cutting his leg near the ankle. He was taken to the city, where the wound was dressed and later he was removed to his home, 1729 Pine street.

BASEBALL MAGNATE HERE IN LAUNCH

Charles Comisky, owner of the world champion White Sox of Chicago, with a party of friends, arrived in La Crosse about noon today in his trim little boat, the "White Sox," and with the launch "Sporting News" of St. Louis. After an hour's stay at the local levee the party pulled out again down river for the fishing to be found a few miles down. Comisky has a party of eight on board with him, but owing to his short stay, he could not be seen.

The "White Sox" is an elegantly equipped boat having a 30 horse power engine to propel it. The interior is conveniently arranged and able to accommodate a large number. It is forty feet in length with a six foot beam. Mr. Comisky has a his own engineer and pilot with him. The party has been coming up the lower river for the past few weeks, stopping here and there to enjoy the fishing. The last long stop was at Dubuque. The party will likely remain in this vicinity for several days. Mr. Comisky, known as the "Old Roman," is looking fine. He has a ruddy complexion and has gained several pounds.

ANNA GOULD TO WED SPENDTHRIFT

NEW YORK, July 31.—Edmond Kelly, the French-American lawyer who obtained for Anna Gould her divorce from Count Boni de Castellane, came to America yesterday with Mrs. Kelly, and partially confirmed the rumors that Mme. Gould will marry the profligate Prince de Sagan.

"It will be regrettable to many of her friends if she does marry him," said Mr. Kelly. "Why, Prince de Sagan can spend more money before 9 o'clock in the morning than Count Boni could spend in a week."

"If he captures Mme. Gould it will prove to be the most expensive matrimonial match ever made by an American millionaire with a titled foreigner."

THE DULUTH MINING WAR IS STIRRED UP

OFFICER BREAKS UP PEACEFUL
MEETING OF MINERS

GOV. JOHNSON CALLED AGAIN

Situation Loses Peaceful Aspect as Result of Armed Violence of County Sheriff

HAUSHWAUK, Minn., July 31.—Ore miners meeting in their own hall were driven out by Sheriff Hoodman and a hundred deputies heavily armed last night at the point of rifles. The strikers were driven home. No resistance was made, as the strikers realized they would be killed. They are angry over the action, as the meeting was peaceful. Gov. Johnson promises to investigate. This incident has had a reactionary effect on the pacific situation that had been allowed, and conditions are now more serious than ever.

The strike so far has been very orderly. The only incident out of the ordinary happened when Petriella, the strike leader, was arrested and placed in jail at Hibbing on a charge of carrying concealed weapons. He was bound over to the grand jury at the September term of court in the sum of $1,000. Ball was promptly furnished by officers of the Western Federation and he was released.

Petriella says that he was carrying the revolver found on his person by the deputies because he had $1,000 in cash in his pockets.

COMMITTEES OF SAENGERBUND MEET

A number of important matters in relation to the 1908 gathering of the Northwestern Saengerbund, to be held in La Crosse, were taken up at a meeting of the general central committee of the Saengerbund held last evening.

The committees acted on the matter of publishing the Fest Journal. It was decided to publish 2,750 copies each month for 10 consecutive months, the first issue to be in October.

It was announced at the meeting that accommodations had already been secured for 500 delegates, representing 25 societies. Orders have been placed with the hotels. The Bund now consists of 76 societies with a membership total of 2,000. At least 1,800 will attend the La Crosse meetings.

President William Boerlinger and Secretary Utermoehl were authorized to correspond with Miss Anna Hickisch to learn whether she can appear as the soprano soloist.

Owing to the rapidly increasing business of the secretary, offices will be secured for him. Secretary Utermoehl and Financial Secretary Luenig were authorized to look after the matter.

HEARD EVIDENCE IN BARBER CHAIR

SO JUDGE BRINDLEY VACATES
BENCH AT TRIAL

SOKOLIK AND BARBER FINED

Shaver Had Failed to Send in Bank to State Commission and Trouble Results

Because he sat in a "barber's chair" and heard the complainant and defendant discuss the question of guilt, without reference to legal code, or the rules of evidence, Judge Brindley vacated the bench this morning, in favor of Justice C. L. Baldwin, when the case of Martin Sokolik, a barber, 517 Main street, charged with employing a barber without a state license was called, and that of George Geishenheimer, charged with working as a barber without a license.

Henry Heine, secretary of the state board of barber examiners, and M. H. Whitaker, another member of the board, swore out the complaint. Yesterday a visit was made to the Sokolik shop by the representatives of the state board. Judge Brindley was being shaved by Sokolik, and heard the discussion of the guilt and innocence of the accused. Each side affirmed itself in the right.

Judge Brindley could not turn a deaf ear, for he was in the center of the argument. He heard the pros and cons of the argument and probably made his decision as to the guilt or innocence of Sokolik.

When the case was called this morning, he vacated the bench, citing his reasons. Justice C. L. Baldwin, who has acted as county judge, was called in.

Pleas of not guilty were entered by Sokolik and Geishenheimer. When the law was explained to them and they saw they had violated the statute unintentionally, through carelessness, the pleas were changed to guilty. Sokolik had furnished his employee with a blank permit to be sent to the board at Madison, Wis., requesting a license. Geishenheimer had failed to mail the permit. Because of these extenuating circumstances, Judge Baldwin imposed the minimum fine, $10 and costs, or ten days in jail. The fine and costs were paid immediately.

NURSE ARRESTED IN ACTRESS MYSTERY

DEVELOPMENTS TEND TO DIS-
CREDIT SUICIDE THEORY

ANOTHER SUICIDE IN CASE

Amos R. Rumbaugh, Possibly a
Suitor, Shoots Himself in Alta Vista Hotel

COLORADO SPRINGS, July 31.—Amos R. Rumbaugh, of Washington, D. C., a clubman and automobilist, supposed to be a "suitor" of Laura Matthews who is said to have suicided, is dead from a self-inflicted wound. He shot himself in the head in the Alta Vista hotel while the inquest was in progress.

Nurse Is Arrested.
Miss Greene, the nurse who attended Miss Laura Matthews, and who announced the girl's suicide before it occurred, was arrested late last night. Late developments in the case tend to weaken the theory of suicide and raise the suspicion of murder. She admitted this when under oath yesterday, but explained it by saying she anticipated the act. She also denied to the coroner that Miss Matthews was in a delicate condition.

Some Mystery Here.
That the act of Rumbaugh is in some way connected with the death of Miss Matthews is not doubted by the police. He was to have appeared today as a witness at the coroner's inquest over the body of the girl.

He had claimed to be but a chance acquaintance of Miss Matthews, but it developed that he knew her in Chicago and also C. A. Coey, and Dr. H. A. Thomas. He was frequent.

TOO MANY WOMEN CAUSE RACE SUICIDE

CHICAGO, Ill., July 31.—Evanston north shore city of wealth, pride and culture, is gaining in feminine population, is losing her masculine inhabitants and is confronted with race suicide.

This situation, regarded by sociologists as affording food for reflection, was revealed yesterday with the completion of the city's annual school census.

The figures showed an increase of 470 in the feminine population, a decrease of forty-two in the number of masculine inhabitants and an increase of only seven in the number under 21 years of age.

The census taker found that race suicide was prevalent almost altogether in the homes of the wealthy.

SLOAT IS ACQUITTED

Earl Sloat, charged with the malicious destruction of property, by Eugene Derr, was acquitted by a jury in county court this morning. The jury was composed of Adam E. Forscher, Carl B. Noelke, Fred Leithold, E. W. Parker, and O. H. Hulberg. Sloat claimed the property destroyed was not sold to Derr, and the jury upheld his claim.

Representative John J. Esch and Frank G. Dana, leader of the Third Regiment band, were given the first degree in Knights of Pythias last night in Linton lodge, No. 27.

DID BARNES RESIGN TO MAKE POLITICAL CAPITAL FOR HIS GUBERNATORIAL UNDERTAKING

CAMERA FACTORY MAY LOCATE HERE

REID AND BENTLEY GO TO ROCHESTER TODAY

NO BONUS IS SOUGHT BY CO.

Officials of Board of Trade Believe
City Can Get Big Factory
by Acting Now.

Ray S. Reid, retiring secretary of the La Crosse Board of Trade, is closing his career as a booster leader for La Crosse, with a whirlwind campaign to secure a new factory for the city. Today is the last day of service for Judge Reid as secretary of the local association.

With the same spirit as manifested by Secretary Reid, A. A. Bentley, the new secretary, who begins his active duties tomorrow, is receiving his initiation into the mysteries of boosting and securing new factories in a trip to Rochester, Minn., this afternoon to secure the Conley Camera company for La Crosse, if possible.

At noon today Secretary Reid and Mr. Bentley left for Rochester, to confer with Robert Conley, president of the company, relative to moving to La Crosse. The company plans on leaving Rochester, and has had short negotiations with Secretary Reid. For more information than given in the first few letters and with the La Crosse spirit and rush, a trip to Rochester was planned instead of a letter.

The Conley Camera company employs 125 people, and the annual output of the company is about $150,000, according to the estimates given Secretary Reid.

No bonus is asked by the concern, simply a building large enough to house the company, for which the usual rent will be paid. No gifts in any form are desired. A brick building, with 10,000 feet of floor space, with railroad facilities at hand, is desirable, but the company may come if the transportation facilities are not so near.

Secretary Reid has made a search of the city, and believes he has found two buildings, either of which will satisfy the company. The trip to Rochester was made to acquaint the company with the facilities offered in La Crosse and to see what the Conley people have to say.

Before leaving Judge Reid was optimistic over securing the plant. "The trip is for the purpose of seeing what the company wants and what it has to offer," said Secretary Reid this morning. "I will return tonight or in the morning, and can give you a better idea at that time, as to whether we will secure the factory."

"I understand the help question bothers the company at Rochester. This was the trouble last spring, and I suppose it is yet."

HAVOC WROUGHT BY EXPLODING ENGINE

MILAN, Tenn., July 31.—An engine of an Illinois Central banana train, running at 60 miles an hour, exploded last night near here, killing Engineer Maloney, Chicago, Robert Henderson, Jackson, Tenn., the fireman and four tramps. Three other trainmen were fatally injured.

A box factory and a store building caught fire and were completely destroyed.

A hole ten feet deep was blown in the ground. The loss is a half million dollars.

THAT IS SENATOR TOM MORRIS IDEA

LA CROSSE LEGISLATOR BELIEVES
THERE WAS A COUP

THINKS IT IS A POOR ONE

Theoretical Discussions Can't Overcome the Argument of the 2-
Cent Rate to Pocketbook

"It looks as though John Barnes had begun his campaign for governor."

That is the way Senator Thomas Morris discussed the latest development in the 2-cent rate incident, in an interview with the Tribune today.

"Mr. Barnes' speech is eloquent of the possibilities his position might lend a gubernatorial candidate," continued Mr. Morris. How far the idea figured in his resignation, if it figured at all, I cannot say. There might have been something in the assertion of a man who said to me yesterday, 'You fellows did Barnes a good turn. He never wanted to be on the commission, and he has been looking for a chance to get off ever since he got on.' Mind, I don't know, but this speech making and talk about 'principles' looks a lot to me like a bird plucking his feathers preparatory to hunting the gubernatorial hug. A chance to make an issue on 'principle' is what keen democrats have wanted, and I wouldn't wonder if, without any worse scheme in his head than to become governor, John Barnes is rummaging among the political tin cans of the democracy trying to be the goat."

What do you think of his chances in a campaign based on his position relative to the railroad commission affair?" Senator Morris was asked. "In six months they will all be trying to prove an alibi," said the senator with a whimsical smile. "Men can't get political riches dying for principle unless it is the right principle. I am afraid Mr. Barnes' political asset will be insufficient to assure him an honorable mention among the 'also rans.' There is one argument that defies theoretical palaverings. It is the fact that, no matter what the commission said, the railroads can stand and are standing 2-cent rates, and that the people are going to be paying only the 2-cent rate."

THE DOPE BOX

Even little Jones couldn't win the game. We wonder what has come over that Madison crowd. When here the bunch looked like dubs of the worst sort. Now they are playing good ball.

"Pink" had his new man on first yesterday, but he pulled him out of the game after a few innings. He used all of his men in the game, but the changes had no effect.

A Wausau paper wonders what has come over the La Crosse team when a bunch like Madison can beat it. Inquiry should also be made to find out what is the matter with Wausau when a crowd like Fond du Lac can beat it.

And Freeport took another grasp on the lead by winning again from Eau Claire. Freeport is now a couple of games to the good with La Crosse and Wausau fighting for second place.

Of course Empire Anderson may be a lady's man, but we never thought it when he was here. The idea of Anderson being the cause of such a rumpus as took place at Madison.

Diesel, the Fond du Lac player who struck and was blacklisted from the game, was allowed to join his team again yesterday and played a star game. Reining didn't hold out very long on his decision.

Bailey, Eau Claire's center field, is on the bench suffering with a sprained ankle.

Ed Konetchy is getting his hitting eye back again. He rapped out another at St. Louis yesterday. Incidentally he made his second error.

Milwaukee Wisconsin: Gerald Hayes, the association umpire, must be given credit for one thing yesterday—and that is the way he handled the terrible crowd of batters—Doyle, Flood, Geier and others. It did not matter whether Gerald thought he was right or not—he would not let any of the players get within hailing distance of him. When they started toward him he simply met them half way, and notified them that he was the whole show and that to take one step nearer would mean banishment from the game. The result was that they all acted like real nice gentlemen.

MADISON, Wis., July 31.—In a pitchers' battle between Grimes and Jones the former won yesterday in 12 innings 2 to 1. It was a good game but the pair of errors on each side assisted materially in the run getting. La Crosse outlived Madison, but Grimes had the faculty of keeping the hits scattered while Madison bunched their few and won out. In the twelfth with a man on third and one out Saub filed out to center field and the runner scored.

GRAFT IN MILWAUKEE

MILWAUKEE, Wis., July 31.—Supervisor Carl A. Swigart, South Milwaukee, stirred up the county board of supervisors as it has not been stirred up in many months by reading an affidavit of Ralph E. Newton that Mr. Newton had been offered $1,000 to withdraw the bid of the Newton Engineering company for the construction of the Grand avenue viaduct.

Mr. Newton said afterward that the money was not tendered by a member of the county board, or any other county official.

District Attorney Francis E. McGovern will give the matter the fullest investigation.

UMP ANDERSON GIVEN A BEATING

"BEAT OUT" A FELLOW BOARDER AND SUFFERS RESULT

HAPPENED ALL AT MADISON

Was Sitting in Front of Place When Assaulted—Assailant Pays for Damage and Costs

MADISON, Wis., July 31.—"Umps" Anderson—the man who bosses things at the baseball park for an hour or so each afternoon—has reformed. Up to last Saturday night he was a snubler. But he has determined to be a grouch hereafter. No more smiling in his. He says it does not pay. He says he does not believe in meeting kindness with kindness. When anyone is kind to him any more he is going to get into his armor, for he fears there will be trouble. He is going to be a grouch and intends to take a correspondence course in it as soon as he gets away from Madison.

Last Saturday night, shortly after the hour of 10 o'clock, he was seated in his chair in front of a Monona avenue boarding house, when there came a sudden rush of wind and a heavy body with a couple of protruding fists landed upon "Umps" Anderson. By that time "Umps" was on the ground and the fellow with his fists had managed to get in a goodly number of swats before help arrived and caused a separation.

Joseph Haberman was the name of the fellow who went after Mr. Anderson, according to the record in the municipal court. He admitted he did it because the other boarders twitted him over the fact that Anderson had "cut him out," something which Mr. Anderson denies, and is willing to prove should there be occasion for it.

Mr. Anderson had been treated with kindness by his landlady and had shown his appreciation of that treatment by sending her some dainty pictures which he picked up in his travels around the baseball circuit. With this evidence it was a simple matter for the rest of the boarders to weave a story with much heart interest. This they did for the amusement of themselves and to arouse the "green eyed monster of jealousy," sleeping in the breast of Mr. Haberman.

Thus it was that the latter gentleman waited until Mr. Anderson was seated comfortably in his chair last Saturday night and then soaked him several times before he had time to know what was doing the job. Mr. Anderson was badly battered up, but he can be excused when the circumstances are thus made public. It is also known that "Umps" recently suffered a broken collar bone, something which makes his trusty right wing of little importance in a fistie mill.

The matter was brought up in Judge Donovan's court this morning for a second or two, but Haberman decided it would be better to settle. So upon payment to Anderson of $25 for damage done to clothes—not to mention face—and an additional payment of $4.92 to the court Anderson withdrew the complaint and the defendant was discharged.

IS RAISULI BRIGAND OR HERO.

(Cleveland Plain Dealer.)
The bandit Raisuli is almost as good a public asset as Mark Twain. He has a genius for doing the unexpected and keeping things stirred up. He adds an element of picturesque to the prosaic march of modern events. The idea is growing rather prevalent in America that this same bandit or brigand, this "Robin Hood of Morocco," Moorish holdup man, rebel chieftain or operative swashbuckler is a pretty good sort of fellow, and one feels constrained to own up to a sneaking admiration for him. The steady, plain, conservative citizen, down in his heart, really envies a nifty knave who cavorts across the desert on an Arabian steed, with circus clothes draped around him, shooting lions and soldiers and things with a gun ten feet long, and kidnapping important people and raising Cain generally.

SEASON IS NOW A MONTH LONGER

La Crosse sportsmen and nimrods were informed today that the legislature at the last session extended the trout fishing season one month, from three and a half months to four and a half months. The open season now begins on April 15 and ends on Sept. 1. Formerly the season began on May 1 and ended Aug. 15.

The change in the law was made at the request of sportsmen in the northern part of the state who declared that the old season deprived many of the persons spending their summer vacation in that part of the state of the pleasure of angling for the best of all game fish.

THE FIRST STEAMBOAT.

The first successful steamboat was built by a man who kept his eyes on Rumsey and Fitch and Symington, and made the best of what he saw. As all the world knows, this was Robert Fulton. In August of 1807 Fulton's steamboat, the Clermont, made a trip on the Hudson river from New York to Albany, a distance of 150 miles, in thirty-two hours, and returned in thirty hours. Fulton advertised for passengers, and his boat was soon crowded. "The Clermont," says an English writer, "was the steamboat that commenced and continued to run for practical purposes, and for the remuneration of her owners." Here was the boat that was wanted—one that was financially profitable.—From S. E. Forman's "Stories of Useful Inventions" in August St. Nicholas.

COUNCILMEN DOUBT AUDITORIUM COST

The five sets of plans for the new Auditorium submitted by Col. Orlando Holway will be handed to Alderman G. A. Keller, chairman of the auditorium committee, and the latter will call a meeting for Saturday night to prepare recommendations to the council. Prospects are that the committee will favor the employment of an expert to pass on the plans to determine if the sketches call for a building which can be put up for the amount allowed by the bonding ordinance.

If the plans submitted to the council auditorium committee provide for a building to come within the limit of $65,000, allowed by the appropriation ordinance now pending in the council, the structure will undoubtedly be built at once, but if the plans call for a building to cost more the ordinance may be killed when it comes up for a third reading.

KOREA.

(Boston Transcript.)
It is one of the ironies of history that Korean sovereignty is now about to be extinguished by the hands of the very men who established it. The Hermit kingdom had long been a kingdom only in name, and had been in fact under the suzerainty of China up to 1894, when the outbreak of the war between China and Japan made Korea the theater of the first encounters by land and sea, and won from Japan completely and honorably confirmed in the treaty of Shimonoseki. Now this short-lived nationality is the promise of independence, soon falling, never again, in all probability, to arise. For though the Japanese will rule more wisely and humanely than ever the Manchus did, they will also rule more firmly, and Korea, instead of a half-free dependency, is undoubtedly destined to become an integral part of the empire—the Japan of the Asiatic mainland.

NEW MUSIC HOUSE

"MY FAIRY" LATEST PUBLICATION OUT

Singer Song Station Located in This City

A new music publishing firm has just been opened in La Crosse with the name of "Singer's Song Station," under the management of Herman W. Singer, who has been connected with the La Crosse Tribune since its first publication, as manager of the North side department and with the editorial and business offices of the south side.

The new song "My Fairy" recently composed by Mr. Singer, is one of the most beautiful waltz ballads in latest popular music. It has a chorus in the way of a "Song proposal," and the construction of the piece is consistent throughout.

The accompaniment of the song was arranged by Walter W. West now of the Symphony orchestra in St. Paul. Mr. West was a student at the Chicago conservatory of music for about three years studying harmony, counterpoint and the construction of music, and the accompaniment is most beautiful.

The piece will be featured by Eric Carrington, known throughout the east as "The Golden Voice Tenor," at the Society Burlesque circus to be given on Aug. 2nd and 3rd, under the auspices of the La Crosse Baseball association and managed by Edward Conway.

Mr. Carrington has sung as a professional since he was ten years of age and has featured songs for such well known publishing firms as Jos. W. Stern of New York, and Witmark and Sons and is known by theatre goers from coast to coast.

He has a rare baritone voice and also a high tenor, singing high "C" in the "Holy City." He will be accompanied by Prof. Dana's orchestra of six pieces.

Experts on professional popular music pronounce the song as one of the big hits of the day.

This is the third song which Mr. Singer has copyrighted. His first effort was in the way of a topical song of the Lewis and Clark expedition, which was written under the name of "Portland, My Pleasure and Sportland." This was sent to President H. W. Goode of the exposition and was to be the official music of the exposition. Other music publishers had entered their music first, however, and the president wrote Mr. Singer that, "Although the song is the best submitted to me, I cannot see how I can, with consistency, grant you the privilege of declaring your song the official music of the exposition when I have already granted that privilege to the author of a previous melody recently submitted."

ANOTHER NOTABLE "BEAT"

In the state of Wisconsin there was one news item of superior importance yesterday. It was the appointment by Governor Davidson of a successor to John Barnes, resigned state railroad commissioner.

THE TRIBUNE was the only newspaper in La Crosse last night to publish this important news item. No evening competitor so much as mentioned it. In other words, no one who did not read THE TRIBUNE knew that Governor Davidson had appointed Bernard R. Goggins as state railroad commissioner for a term of more than five years until this morning, or twelve hours after readers of THE TRIBUNE knew it.

The importance of this item of news is everywhere recognized. Following the sensational action of the state legislature in overruling the rate of the commission (a story that appeared exclusively in THE TRIBUNE on the day it happened), and the subsequent resignation of Mr. Barnes, the affair has been the leading topic of newspaper discussion in this state, and interest immediately centered in the appointment of a successor. That the appointment was to be made yesterday was known to THE TRIBUNE'S Madison correspondent early in the day; that the appointee would probably be Mr. Goggins was known at noon, and a special dispatch to that effect was in type in THE TRIBUNE office. The appointment came at 3:30 in the afternoon, and advised that it would come at that time, the editor of THE TRIBUNE was holding the first page for the bulletin authorizing publication. It came within 15 minutes after the appointment, and the paper went to press with the whole interesting story, while after THE TRIBUNE containing the article was in the hands of the news boys the evening contemporaries of this journal appeared without a scrap of news about the affair.

It takes enterprise and alertness to successfully publish a newspaper. When it is known in advance that an important piece of news is pending there is no excuse for a newspaper not getting it and serving it to its patrons, for it is that for which they pay.

We submit that here is another proof that to get the news when it is news the people of La Crosse and vicinity must read THE TRIBUNE. It is wide-awake. It is "there with the goods."

NON-PARTISANSHIP PRESERVED

It is probable that before determining upon the appointment of Bernard R. Goggins to succeed Mr. John Barnes on the state railroad commission Governor Davidson satisfied himself of the candidate's qualifications for the important office. The endorsement of Mr. Goggins by so learned a man as Judge Charles M. Webb is of itself a good guarantee of the appointee's capability. Presumably, from that standpoint, the selection is a satisfactory one.

But there is another reason why the appointment should be hailed with approval. Mr. Goggins is a democrat. It is presumed that it was the intention of the law creating the commission to provide for one democratic member, to keep the institution out of partisan politics. However, likely through an oversight, the bill was passed without such provision being made. Hence, had he wished, republican Governor Davidson might have played politics by appointing a republican in Mr. Barnes' place. He was urged to do this by selfish newspapers, and probably by equally selfish politicians.

MEN OF NOTE

William Marconi

William Marconi, noted as the practical developer of wireless telegraphy, was born at Bologna, Italy, on April 27th 1874. Marconi was educated at Leghorn, Italy, and later attended the University of Bologna. He began in 1890 on his father's country place to study seriously the problem of wireless communication with electrical energy. Five years later he interested Sir William P. Preece, the head of the English Postal Telegraph department, and messages were sent from Queen Victoria's yacht to the shore. His success was assured after this and in 1899 Marconi visited the United States. He established wireless communication across the Atlantic in 1902. On March 16th, 1905, he married the Hon. Beatrice O'Brien. The Marconi home is in Bologna.

But he didn't. And therein lies a most gratifying consequence. The Free Press, for instance, has been bawling the "blow to the commission principle" struck by the legislature in passing the 2-cent fare bill over the heads of the commission, but it has urged that no harm could come from the appointment of a republican, thus throwing the board into the hands of a single political party. (Provided, of course, that the republican appointed were the republican it had selected.) What a "blow to the commission principle" that injection of partisanship into the body would have been! And in declining to thus prostitute the commission to partyism Governor Davidson rose above those who have been whispering that he is weak and a "politician."

Incidentally, Mr. Barnes says that if the board was honest, the legislature erred in passing the 2-cent fare bill; and that if it was dishonest, the legislature should have removed the commissioners. The facts are that the commission said that 2 1/2 cents was the least the railroads could accept at a reasonable profit. The commissions of four other middle-west states put the figure at 2 cents. Four months later the Wisconsin legislature suddenly passed the 2-cent bill over the heads of the state commission, and the railroads prepared to accept the rate. Thereupon the public is informed that the commission (four months after it said it could not be done) was about to have made a 2-cent rate, anyway. And nevertheless the commission throws a fit and one of the commissioners resigns. So, after viewing all the facts, one is inclined to agree with Mr. Barnes that the legislature might have done what he says it should have done, without having affected his present unofficial status.

It begins to appear that all there is in the celebrated Magill murder mystery is just another of those cases of indecent haste to marry after the death of a too indulgent and long neglected life partner. The Magills may escape the clutches of the law, but they can never regain the respect of home-loving people.

Emma Goldman is doing her level best to prove, by her pernicious activity, that the president was as right as he was indiscrete in that unhappy reference to certain "undesirable citizens."

The selection of a site for the Vote-Berger company's new plant is another reminder that this enterprising institution proposes to help make the country "keep its eye on La Crosse."

An Ann Arbor dispatch tells of a baby swallowing a Teddy Bear and nearly dying in consequence. These "nature fakers" simply will not be squealed!

If the government had a spark of discretion it would be timid about this monkeying with the powder trust.

And now will Senator Foraker please go way back to Brownsville and sit down?

OF HUMAN INTEREST

Have you ever thought when anyone is on trial for their lives that the most terrible trial and suspense for all concerned is that which the loved ones at home suffer. It must be the most severe suspense imaginable for all, but with father and mother, sister and brother or wife there is the added sense of sympathy and agonized love to be taken into account. In the many noted murder trials of Minnesota and Wisconsin there has scarcely been one where the prisoner was not surrounded by the loyal members of the family.

It seems to me this must be the crucial test of human affection. Even when the guilt of the prisoner seems patent to all it serves but to strengthen the love and care of those nearest and dearest. I shall never forget that famous Anoka, Minn., murder trial of some years ago when the two lovers of two sisters through a preconcerted plan tried to murder the whole family, four in number, besides the girls, in order to get the insurance money and marry the girls. They shot through the lighted windows, the shades of which had been purposely left up by the girls.

The baby in its mother's arms was instantly killed, the mother died before the dawn, the father was completely paralyzed below the waist and was an invalid till his death some months later and little "Joe" the fourteen-year-old son lay in a hospital for months, but finally recovered.

It was the most cruel crime that could have been conceived. It seemed as if the very foundations of society were stirred at the degeneracy of these four young people. At the trial which was long and exciting, the testimony of the girls was thrown out entirely, they being considered as degenerates and unable to be believed.

The parents of the boys were of course overwhelmed, but day after day they were assisted into court and as they saw the noose slowly, but surely tightening around their boys' necks, it was said among spectators that they couldn't bear to look at one of the mothers faces. She was the principal witness, all hung on her testimony.

The moment came for her to testify and in faltering tones and with limbs that shook so she had to be supported she swore that her boy had gone to bed early that evening, not feeling well and that she had sat in the room adjoining till after twelve o'clock; thus she proved an alibi that saved "her boys" life. Ah, mothers, who wouldn't? We might instantly think that he ought to have received his just and due punishment for every one knew he was guilty, but would it be easy for any of us to swear away our own boy's life? I am afraid not.

No matter what the criminal is or has done there is always a feeling of sympathy for those whom he has brought down to the depths of human sorrow. And in the case of a mother and her son, it seems as if it would be a trial too hard to bear to have to be the means of his ignominious death.

JULIE OPP FAVERSHAM

(Copyrighted By Harper & Bros.)

But Henry, who had blurted out in a heat of temper more than he had reason for, tried to ignore the question and the look of sudden bewilderment in her eyes. He moved restlessly in his chair as he said: "Never mind, mother; it doesn't matter."

But Lady Elizabeth went to him, and, with her arms about him, whispered, "My son, you are nervous, pale, distraught. You have been so for some time. I haven't spoken of it for fear of annoying you, but others are beginning to speak of it. What is it?" She drew his head back until it rested against her breast. "Can't you trust your mother?"

Instead of restive withdrawal from her embrace, he let her soothe his head with her half-trembling hands. Why not tell her what he suspected?

"Have you seen Jim and Diana much together?"

"Not more than always," was her reassuring reply.

"But, mother, have you observed them when they are together?"

Lady Elizabeth slipped down on the seat beside him.

"My boy, your suspicions are morbid and unjust. You ought to be ashamed of them," she gently urged. In her heart she feared for him and his happiness with Diana. She had seen the girl gradually sicken and turn away from her life with Henry. Great provocation, she knew, had been given Diana, but at present it was wiser not to discuss this with him, but to calm him.

Suddenly he leaned forward and buried his face in his arms.

"Mother, I love Diana. I have my faults, but that is the best of me. I love her desperately. Oh, I know you're going to say that at times I haven't proved by my actions that I cared for her, but it's because I knew from the beginning that I never could reach her. Does she love me? No, I can't deceive myself. She was devilled into marrying me for the damned title. I know that now. The best I can hope for is that she should not utterly despise me, and I want a chance to win her love—my God, how I want it! Everything that Jim does pleases her. She admires him; I can see it clearly." He paused as the whirlwind of words swept from him; he rose, and towered over his mother.

"That admiration belongs to me. You've spoiled me, mother. I've always had what I wanted, and now I'm the victim of it. I'm the selfish monster that takes everything while St. James stands modestly in the background. Oh, don't you see you see you have made him her hero, not me?"

He began to move restlessly about the room. Lady Elizabeth following. Indulgent she linked her arm through his. Although a fear was beginning to persuade her from the truth of his wild words, still, she argued, he greatly exaggerated. That he cared so deeply for Diana promised well for the future, and, with her aid, Diana would soon be convinced of Henry's worthiness.

"My dear boy," she said, "is that all you have to worry over?"

"No, mother, no—I wish to God it were."

She caught hold of him almost savagely. "Ah—" she gasped. Then the apprehensions that had torn her for days had been justified. She feared to question further. An overwhelming dread held her in its torturing grip. Henry started as though to leave her; his face was averted, she turned him towards her.

"Money again?" she asked.

"You know what the demands on me are. I couldn't disgrace my family by going into bankruptcy, and I had to have money. Well—I was foolish enough to borrow—"

Lady Elizabeth knew instinctively the words that would follow. Her hands clinched his arm so tight that he shrank under the pressure.

"Borrow, mind," he continued, "some of the Fund's money."

"The Relief Fund? Oh, Henry—"

The despair and horror of her tone caused him to put his arms protectively about her. Even in his own blind fury at fate he could see her shrink from her stately strength into a feeble old woman. He tried to reassure her.

"Oh, it's really all right, mater. I'll be able to replace it."

"How?"

She clung to his arm. He could hear the quiver of his last quarters beginning; it would be impossible to continue this conversation much longer.

"You wouldn't understand, mother. You see, it's a stock transaction, but it's all right—bound to be. Hobbes of Simpson & Hobbes, you know, gave me the tip. It was absolutely inside information."

Lady Elizabeth loosened her hold, and with a hopeless gesture moved away. Henry read her lack of faith in the enterprise.

"Oh, I took the trouble to verify it," he did not admit, however, that he had sought Petrie's advice only after the plunge, when the waiting had grown too fearful. "I'm expecting a telegram tonight—that's the reason I'm nervous. But I'll have enough to put back the sum I've borrowed, and a nice little fortune besides. Don't you worry." But even as he spoke the comforting words he seemed to lose the confidence which he was vainly trying to assume. The telegram should have arrived in the afternoon. He knew that Petrie, if his investigation had been at all hopeful, would have sent a reassuring word. Then, that the strength of his mother, upon which he had so often leaned, should crumble away as he confessed to her, that he should be forced to carry her anxieties instead of receiving her support, terrified him with its significance.

It was all quite palpable to Lady Elizabeth. His drawn face with eyes like burned-out flames showed how the fever of unrest and fear consumed him.

"Henry, you are trying to reassure yourself, not me," she said.

"No, no, mother, it isn't that." But it was useless, he could no longer play a part. "Yes, you're right," he acknowledged as he threw himself down on the great stone bench.

"My God, the consequences—the consequences!"

And Lady Elizabeth stood dumb and helpless. For the first time he held out his hands to her, and she was unable to grasp them in support of her own. She could offer no respite to the torture of suspense he endured.

As they stood in silence, Diana came from the pergola. "Dear people are you moon-struck? Our guests are missing you."

With an effort Elizabeth turned.

"Is the dance over?" she said.

Henry's words followed close: "Have we been gone very long?"

"Oh no—but you see they have stopped bridge, and the men want to talk to you about the Fund. They are all so proud of our extraordinary result. They want a statement published so that they can gloat over the envy of the other regiments."

"Published—a statement! but Diana, who was bending over some roses, hardly noticed the strained speech, and Lady Elizabeth motioned him to restrain his agitation.

"First, I believe," Diana continued as she seated herself, "there is a committee or somebody to go over the accounts and what do they call it?"

"Audit them," Henry found himself mechanically saying.

"Yes, that's it. They want to know when it will be convenient tomorrow for you, Henry."

Quite vaguely he said, "Oh yes—for me."

In his work for the Yeomanry and his characteristic British loyalty to his men, Diana found one great virtue to be as proud of in Henry. She realized this as she heard the men discussing his efforts. For several days a growing feeling of pity for his mispent life had taken hold of her as she saw what he really could do when he willed.

"You are a great man with the Tenth, Henry," she said. "To hear them talk, one would think you carried the regiment in your pocket. And the dear mother there—to see her listen to your praises! Oh, well, it's very beautiful—you both had better go and glory in some more. The taste for adulation will grow insatiable after this—won't it?" As she spoke she lifted her long, slender hands and fastened them across her brows. Henry came to her. She was very beautiful; an unusual pallor gave her face a delicate spirituality. In the dim light her soft white draperies, the fluttering of her ends, and the wreath of green leaves made her seem half a sprite.

"Won't you return with us, Di?"

"No—I have a headache. I'll stay here in the air for a few moments."

As she spoke, Jim came towards them.

"The next is our dance, Diana. Will you come?"

Henry answered for her with unmistakable sarcasm.

"Perhaps Jim will stay with you, Di, as you have a headache."

And Jim innocently replied, "With pleasure; I've really been doing duty quite assiduously in the way of dancing."

He crossed to Diana's side. Lady Elizabeth, who had been trying to divert an awkward moment, drew her arm through Henry's. Henry looked at his mother's face, which grew tender as her eyes rested on him.

"I'm afraid my wife does not share your pleasure in my praises, mater."

"Oh, yes," Diana answered, "but you must not expect a wife to have illusions of a mother."

It was lightly said, to cover up an apparent effort on Henry's part, to cause an embarrassing moment.

Lady Elizabeth took up the cue. She glanced from Jim to Diana, but they were beginning to talk; she almost drew Henry forcibly away as she said with forced gaiety, "No—no one can love you as your mother does, dear."

She little knew the prophetic truth of her words or to what length her mother-love would lead her before another day had passed at the Towers.

Long Live The King!

is the popular cry throughout European countries; while in America, the cry of the present day is "Long Live Dr. King's New Discovery, King of Throat and Lung Remedies!" of which Mrs. Julia Ryder Paine, Truro, Mass., says: "It never fails to give immediate relief and to quickly cure a cough or cold." Mrs. Paine's opinion is shared by a majority of the inhabitants of this country. $8 FARE FROM ST. PAUL TO CHICAGO

OMAHA WILL TAKE THE STEP AT ONCE

OTHER ROADS MAY FOLLOW IT

Under New Law Railway Must Secure Permission from Interstate Commerce Commission

It was definitely announced by a prominent official of the Omaha road, of which the Winona line through La Crosse is a branch, that it is the intention of the company to put in an $8 rate to Chicago on Aug. 16. Unless unforeseen circumstances arise before that date the rate to Chicago will be lowered from $8.75 to $8.

In putting in the new rate it is necessary to get special permission from the interstate commerce commission, otherwise notice of such change in rate must be filled with the commission thirty days before it can go into operation. Inasmuch as the new rate is a reduction from the old one, it is not expected that there will be any delay from lack of authorization on the part of the commission.

The new rate is due to the new 2-cent rate law in Wisconsin, which goes into effect on Aug. 15. With that law in force the entire route of the Omaha on the main line to Chicago lies within the territory of 2-cent rate states. The total mileage between St. Paul and Chicago on the Omaha is 402 miles, which at 2 cents per mile makes the rate 8.04. On account of the custom, however, of the roads to make the rate between large points an even figure, the fare doubtless will be $8 flat.

The rate clerks of the Omaha have been working on local rates, revising them to conform to the new law, and by August 15 will have compiled the entire rate sheet for points on their own line. For interline rates, however, the rate sheets will not be completed for some time, and for that reason tickets will be sold to stations on the Omaha line only, within the state of Wisconsin, and the passenger will be compelled to purchase a new ticket to transfer from the Omaha to another state line. This arrangement, however, will be only temporary, and will simply continue until the interline rates can be figured under the new law.

It is expected that competing lines, of course, will meet the reduction, regardless of mileage.

MRS. EDDY'S CHAMPS ARE IN CONTEMPT

CONCORD, N. H., July 30.—Calvin A. Frye, private secretary to Mrs. Mary Baker G. Eddy, and his assistant, H. Cornell Wilson, formerly of New York, will face a motion that an attachment for contempt of court be issued against them, and a similar motion would have been made against Mrs. Laura E. Sargent of Brooklyn, who is also a member of the Eddy household, were it not for the chivalry of the counsel for the "next friends," who make the fight upon Frye and Wilson to test the whole question.

Upon this question Edmund S. Cook, sitting as a magistrate for the taking of depositions in the case, has already declared in open court that he thinks he will issue the writ of attachment for contempt asked for. He will, however, take until tomorrow to fully consider the matter.

The trouble comes out of a deadlock over the taking of depositions. Since July 1 the plaintiffs have endeavored to take these depositions. Wilson and Mrs. Sargent have twice summoned, but they have paid no attention.

JUMPERS GET GIRL, FAMILY COMPLAINS

MOTHER SEEKS AID OF COURTS TO SECURE RETURN

SERVICE CHARMED DAUGHTER

Affectionate Greeting Between Two in Holy Roller Home—Prays for Home But Does Not Go

WAUKESHA, Wis., July 31.—Mrs. Anna Lundell of Sauk City, Ia., has arrived in the city to secure, if possible, her daughter, Olga, aged 17, from the Holy Jumpers and induce her to return to her home from which, the mother says, she was enticed by the apostles of Duke M. Farson in November, 1906. The law has been invoked to aid the mother in her quest, a writ of habeas corpus having been issued by Court Commissioner D. J. Hemlock on application of Mrs. Lundell's attorneys.

According to the story of the mother, who is accompanied here by an elder daughter, Edith, Olga, a sophomore in the Sauk City high school, was happy and contented in her home and school life until a band of the "Holy Jumpers" under the leadership, it is said, of R. L. Erickson, now a member of the Fountain House colony, made their appearance at Sauk City a year ago, and began a series of camp meetings and revivals. Olga attended many of the meetings, attracted by the unusual demonstrations.

Left With the "Jumpers." From the first, the mother says, the exhortations of the "Jumper" evangelists this seemed to have a weird fascination for the girl. Two weeks later she disappeared.

According to the mother some days later a letter was received from this city, and her sister Edith immediately came here to find her. Finally some of the missionaries admitted the girl had been here but that she had gone to Chicago. At Christmas time her father, Peter Lundell, came here but was unable to gain any information as to his daughter's whereabouts.

Find Girl at Fountain House.

Mrs. Lundell and her elder daughter arrived in the city and went to the Fountain house yesterday. The mother and daughter asked permission to enter which was readily granted. They discovered Olga playing the piano and their greeting was affectionate.

Mrs. Lundell expostulated with her daughter, urging her to return home.

"Jumpers" Will Not Give Her Up. With the words, "I can only go where the Lord wants me to," the girl burst into tears and while in her mother's embrace, Mrs. Lundell says, they were surrounded by a crowd of the "Jumpers" who commenced to pray and shout. At this juncture Olga in tears was rushed away with the statement that if after ten minutes of prayer she desired to accompany her relatives she might do so, but although the mother and sister waited several hours she did not return. It was then that Mrs. Lundell returned to the city and sought the counsel of an attorney.

$200,000 IN TRUNK

WATERTOWN, Wis., July 31.—A trunk containing bonds, stocks and other securities to the amount of $200,000 was brought to light here when Otto Heincken, teacher in the Immanuel school returned home after an absence of several weeks.

While in Chicago Mr. Heincken left word with the express company to call for two trunks to be sent to Watertown, and left the address for the same. When the driver came for them, he, in some manner mixed one of the addresses, sending a trunk which should have been marked "Central depot, Chicago," to this city.

This will amount to $233 for every Pottawatomie in the United States, and about sixty families, or approximately 180 individual Indians in Wood county will receive their portion today.

A new adding machine and mimeograph has also been added to the equipment. The scores of machines used here before will be sent to the branch schools elsewhere.

RAILROAD TAXES $100,000 MORE

STATE COMMISSION GIVES OUT FIGURES

MAKE FINAL ASSESSMENT

Old System Will Hold if Ad Valorem Is Killed—Estimate is Made in Two Ways

MADISON, Wis., July 31.—The taxes of the railroads of Wisconsin were raised by the tax commission $100,000 over the gross sum paid by this corporations a year ago.

The state tax commission, sitting as a state board of assessment, the property of railroad companies in the administration of the ad valorem railroad taxation law of 1903, has announced the final assessment of the property of the railroads for the year 1907.

The method of determining this tax, as prescribed by the ad valorem law, is for the tax commission to value the property of the roads and to apply to this valuation or assessment the average rate of taxation paid by the general property of the state. The old license fee system is also involved in the making of the assessment, for the taxes are calculated as upon the license fee or gross earnings plan and the tax commission announces the amount of the difference between the license fee system and the ad valorem system.

This method was used so that in the event that the litigation to test the validity of the ad valorem law should result adversely to the state, the state even then would not be deprived of all the taxes to be collected from the railroad property. This litigation has now been decided in favor of the state.

Statement in Figures.

Following are some facts from the announcement of the assessment:

Rate of taxation, 1906	.0113819066
Rate of taxation, 1907	.0109505
Total valuation, 1906	$237,239,500.00
Total valuation, 1907	255,850,000.00
Increase over 1906	18,610,500.00
Total tax, 1906	2,700,237.56
Total tax, 1907	2,801,685.24
Increase over 1906	101,447.78
License fees, 1906	2,057,733.34
License fees, 1907	2,274,380.34
Increase over 1906	215,647.00

The baseball team goes to Grand Rapids Sunday to play the team at that place. Cashton team was there July 21, but only succeeded in playing one inning on account of a rain-storm interfering.

The Cashton team defeated the W. B. U. team of La Crosse in a merry contest Sunday by a score of 3 to 0. It was Babcock against Kohn who was a trifle easy, but Babcock was good all the way and only allowed two hits and struck out sixteen men. Babcock was working and when he is going right he is a pitching problem none of them can solve. This makes three games Cashton has played against the W. B. U. team and a total of 28 innings and not a run has been scored against the locals and no more than 6 hits have been secured off Babcock for a total of 3 games. This is somewhat of a record for a pitcher to hold a team like the La Crosse bunch to six hits in three games.

The church picnic held at Irish Ridge Sunday was a large success. The picnic was to be held July 21, but bad weather prevented and it was postponed.

The track between Cashton and Melvina is being repaired by a large gang of Italians from the main line. The train reached Cashton Friday evening about 6:30 for the first time since last Saturday. The track is still in bad shape, it being very rough and still needs considerable filling in. Last Saturday the noon train was delayed over two hours, as a refrigerator car filled with butter and eggs ran off the track a mile north of Cashton and the car had to be brought back to Cashton, the train taking it down to Sparta on Sunday. Supt. P. C. Eldridge of La Crosse division is directing the work.

THE KILTIES.

There are bands that are popular locally, and bands that have a national reputation, but the Kilties have not only won renown in their own country but are internationally famous. They have given over 4,000 concerts in Canada, United States, England, Ireland, Scotland, Wales and Mexico, and wherever appearing have been accorded the warmest reception, return engagements always being requested by those who hear them.

Occupying a unique position among bands, this uniformed organization of musical artists possesses unquestioned ability added to the finish that comes only from a long association together. Their tours usually occupy 11 months of the year, leaving but one month for home life in Belleville, Canada. They have just begun their 15th year, and those who have heard them this year say they never played so well. Accompanying the Kilties and acting as a part of the entertainment is a choir of 16 trained male voices as well as the American champion bagpiper, Sword, sailor's hornpipe and Highland fling dancer, Mr. Angus MacMillan Fraser. Both the choir and Mr. Fraser are seen and heard at every concert and the popularity of the band is never wondered at by those who have opportunity to hear them.

The Kilties will be in La Crosse for three days, commencing Monday, when they will give concerts in full costume as they always do, at the League park. Their visit to our city is an event which those who enjoy good music well played will not allow themselves to miss, and a large audience is expected to hear this famous band.

Honest Values

That is the aim of this store—to give such values as will inspire the complete confidence of the people. "HONEST VALUES" to us means a hundred cents' worth of quality for every dollar spent here. We believe we deserve our great patronage because this policy is so decidedly lived up to. We try to please all. If we fail to do so we want to know it—and why. A customer of this store need never hesitate to enter a complaint. We want to make our store better—the way to do it is to learn our weak points and then remedy them. SHRIEKS OF TERROR
IN HELLO EXCHANGE

WELLESLEY, Mass., July 31.—Investigation of the murderous attack on Joseph D. McCarthy, the night operator at the Wellesley Telephone exchange, lying at the point of death today, reveals the most weird mystery which has ever confronted the Massachusetts police.

During the last 20 months one man in charge of the night exchange has been murdered and nine others driven from their posts by mysterious attacks. Perley Parker was found one morning in his chair shot through his head. Eight men who succeeded him were driven from the office by a series of strange manifestations. Alone at night, they heard pistol shots and blood-curdling yells. The last act took place when McCarthy was found with bullet wounds in the back of his head. He is still unconscious and it is feared he will die without being able to speak.

LABOR WANTS BORAH
LOCKED IN JAIL

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 31.—Organized labor in Washington has gone on the warpath for the scalp of Senator Borah of Idaho, counsel of the state in the prosecution of Haywood. The following resolution was adopted by the Central Labor union, with practically no opposition:

"Whereas, Senator Borah of Idaho is now under indictment for complicity in the timber land frauds against the United States government,

"Therefore, be it resolved, that the Central Labor union petition and request the president of the United States to secure or permit the attorney general to issue an order for arrest in such cases and provide speedy trial, that the stigma of indictment may be removed from the name of a senator of the United States, and that he may prove whether he is a desirable citizen or not."

It was also decided to send a telegram of congratulation to Haywood.

BIG ENGINE LEAVES
TRACK AT SAVANNA

Early Monday evening one of the big road engines of the Burlington was taken out of the round house at Savanna and when it was going through the yards the monster run on a bad piece of track and overturned.

The crew jumped in time and no one was injured. The wrecking outfit and crew were at work nearly all night getting the large engine on the track and straightening up the track.

The cause of the engine leaving the tracks was on account of poor ties and the rail came loose.

DAILY MARKETS

LOCAL MARKET IS STILL STATIONARY

NO CHANGE NOTED OVER THE PRICES OF YESTERDAY

GRAIN IS STRAIGHTENING UP

Heavy Rain of Two Weeks Ago Has Not Seriously Interfered With Farmers' Crops

The local market remains stationary today and no change is noted over yesterday's prices. Although much grain in this section of the country was flattened on the ground by the heavy rain that fell about ten days ago, it is reported that the damage will not be as great as was at first supposed. Corn that was believed to have been ruined has straightened up and the warm weather that has followed the rain has put it in splendid condition. Few farmers are coming to the city, but those who have been here during the past week bring very encouraging reports regarding the crop situation.

CHI. MARKETS

Wheat opened easy and a fraction down this morning on indifferent Liverpool cables and fine weather in the northwest. Continental markets were all higher. There has been no special feature to market and trade has been light especially from the outside. During the latter part of the session the market became weak and declined quite sharply on free offerings. Northwest receipts, Minneapolis and Duluth, were 193 cars against 142 a year ago. Chicago received 170 cars, against 297 a year ago. Primary receipts were 775,000 bu. against 1,491,000 a year ago, and shipments 335,000 bu. against 997,000 a year ago. Clearance of wheat and flour were light, being only 83,000 bu. Minneapolis stocks of wheat show a decrease of 475,000 bu. for four days. Crop damage news has been of a conflicting nature and seems to have had but little effect on the prices. The close was easy at decline.
Corn and oats have been strong and higher. There has been good buying of these cereals most of the day. Snow's crop report on corn and oats being of an unfavorable character.
Provisions have been firm, with trade very light and prices a trifle higher than yesterday's close.

His Point of View.
"I'd have you know I always weigh my words."
"Yes, you're right, and you don't forget to give good measure."
If you see all the family gathered out in the yard looking admiringly up into a tree you will know that there is an apple there, and they have gathered to worship it.

THE LOAF OF BREAD

One morning one summer, when I was spending a few days at a farmhouse in eastern Ohio, the good housewife showed that she was troubled. Naturally I inquired the cause. "Oh," she said, "I'm afraid something dreadful will happen. This morning I put a batch of bread into the oven, and all the loaves except one cracked across the top."

"What if they did?" I replied in tones of curiosity.
"Don't you know," she said, with an air of surprise, "that when bread cracks across the top it means misfortune to some one in the family? I would not have had it happen for the world."

As I left a few days after this mishap to the bread I never learned whether the sign was a true omen or not. However, the housewife had contributed to my stock of information and had given me an item of folklore that led to further investigation.

One of my German friends tells me that in many parts of his native country the housewife still believes that cracks on the top of the loaf of bread indicate the death of some one in the household or perhaps misfortune to a dear friend, while cracks on the lower side of the bread are taken to indicate a birth.
As many of us know, bakers in many places mark the sign of a cross upon the dough before placing it in the oven. The reason for making this sign becomes plain when we know the origin of the custom. Almost all our superstitious about bread date back to old pagan days, though they have been greatly modified so as to conform to Christian beliefs. With the ancient Romans the baking of bread and cakes was often invested with a religious significance, especially the cakes offered to the gods and goddesses. These cakes were prepared in a particular way, and after being marked with the symbol of the deity in whose honor they were offered they were supposed to possess supernatural virtues.

The old domestic practice was modified when Christianity became triumphant, and in place of a pagan symbol the early Christian housewife not only used to make the sign of the cross when she began to knead the dough, but she marked that sign upon her loaf before placing it in the oven. Why? Simply because the sign of the cross is the recognized Christian protecting mark against the attacks of evil spirits, witches and the like; hence bread marked with the cross is supposed to be witchproof, will bake all right, not crack across the top, etc.

Just as the Jews have passover cakes and other peoples have had specially prepared food for their religious festivals, so the Christians have cakes for certain seasons. Our hot cross buns on Good Friday are simply modern representatives of the cakes used at some old pagan festival.

In truth, to study the superstitions about bread is to take a wide lesson in folklore. These superstitions relate to the kneading trough, the oven, bakers and bread. For instance, in many parts of France the arche, or kneading trough, is more than a rude kitchen utensil. It is often a pretty bit of furniture. M. Sebillot, who collected many of the superstitions of the French folk relative to bread, quotes the story of a thief who entered the window of a house with intent to commit burglary, but refused to step on the trough still containing the dough, believing that to do so would be an impiety.

A writer in an English magazine says that in Gottland the cross is still signed before the oven fire is lighted or the dough kneaded. This practice is very common in the country districts all over Europe. In Brittany the housewife makes the sign of the cross with the right hand while she places the left hand in the trough. After the dough is kneaded, the lid of the trough is shut, and so is the door, for if the cat should enter the room the bread would not rise. Certain charms or invocations are used to cause the bread to multiply itself. Thus the peasant housewife adores the dough to imitate the leaven, the wheat the miller and to rise. She would be very angry if any one should sing or whistle in the room while she is making the loaf.

In some parts of Europe the bake oven is almost a sacred object. In certain places of Brittany, for example, it is dedicated with ceremonies. The wood is sprinkled with blessed water. The proper heat is attested by the melting of a bottle, and finally an egg is broken for luck. Besides, there are certain days on which bread must not be baked, as on Holy Friday or during the night of All Saints, when the ghosts would be sure to eat it.

The loaf of bread itself is connected with a whole crowd of superstitions. According to an old English superstition, if a loaf accidentally falls in the hand while an unmarried lady is cutting it this may be taken to indicate either that she will not be married during the next twelve months, or, what is worse, that there will be dissensions of some kind in the family. Some folks have a fear of turning a loaf upside down after cutting it. Of course it is everywhere regarded as bad luck for a piece of bread to fall on the buttered side.—New York Post.

HANGS SELF AFTER DEATH OF WIFEDESPONDENT MAN, AT 74 YEARS
IS A SUICIDE

NOTES TELL REASON FOR ACT

Wave of Self-Destruction Continues in Twin Cities—Dead Man Is Found in Cellar

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 31.—John G. Huber, 74 years old, committed suicide by hanging himself in the cellar of his home. His body was discovered shortly afterward by his granddaughter, Miss Eleanor Best, who kept house for him.

Oespondency over the death of his wife, which occurred four weeks ago, was the cause of the suicide. This note was left by the decedent, being translated from the German in which it was written:

The loving God have mercy on my soul. My spirit is darkened by my dear wife's death. Don't judge me too hard, but think of the hardships I have endured since my wife died. Farewell, farewell—God bless you all, my children. Father.

J. G. HUBER.

Huber owned considerable real estate in St. Paul, and was considered well off. He retired from active business several years ago.

Since the death of his wife Huber had been brooding almost constantly, despite the efforts of his granddaughter, Miss Best, who came here recently from Milwaukee, to cheer him. He arose at the usual hour this morning, and did not appear any more downcast than for many days. Miss Best, consequently, had no occasion to watch him, and while he was absent attending to housework, the aged man descended into the cellar, wrote his farewell note, and then hanged himself to a joist.

HARVEST IS STARTED

ALBERT LEA, Minn., July 31.—Harvest in Freeborn county has begun. Barley is being cut as well as some of the oats, the latter being of the early varieties. The grain has been injured to some extent by red rust and wheat has not escaped injury.

In some localities the damage has been greater than in others, and it is even affecting oats sown with wheat. The stalk is very heavy, and in some places the late wind and rain storms knocked down both wheat and oats. If wheat does not ripen too fast, the crop will be a heavy one here, as the stand is good and the ears long, but some fields are reported red from the rust and this is certain to have a bad effect upon the crop.

Corn has made such rapid progress the past few weeks that it is not very far behind its usual condition at this season of the year, notwithstanding the very late spring. Most fields are tasseling, and with good weather the next six or eight weeks will insure a good crop here, but the stand is not as good as last year owing to the cold, wet weather of last spring.

Hay is progressing and the last week saw a large amount go into the barns and stacks in prime condition, as there were no rains of any consequence. The crop is a heavy one, but on some low ground it may be wasted, as it cannot be cut and hauled away, although a week of dry weather will make wonderful changes in conditions.

BULL CARGES FARMER

ATWATER, Minn., July 31.—Louis Nordin of Lake Elizabeth was seriously injured and his wife had a narrow escape from the attacks of a vicious bull.

Nordin was out in the pasture when the bull suddenly attacked him. The man was knocked down and five of his ribs were broken, but he managed to climb into a tree. The beast stood guard at the foot of the tree and it was some hours before the cries of the injured man attracted the attention of his wife.

The woman started across the field to the tree in which her husband was, but as soon as the bull espied her, he took after her and she was compelled to run for her life. In climbing through a barbed wire fence her dress caught and she was held a prisoner until the bull was almost upon her. Then the skirt which held her gave way and she escaped just in the nick of time.

Meanwhile Nordin had clambered down from the tree and managed to reach the house. He is in a serious condition from his injuries and exposure.

BY A NOSE

"He had a string of offices," remarked a racer, "in the office of the Savoy. Funny thing about him, too—had 'em all named Nose."

"There was a Nose, Long Nose, Your Nose, My Nose, His Nose, Red Nose, Pug Nose and several more, nobody knows now anyway."

"Come a big race. He enter His Nose, Your Nose and By a Nose, them being the best runners in the bunch."

"Well, come to the bettin'. Guys down lookin' for inside information. 'What looks good to you?' a fellow asks me."

"Well, I says, 'I picked My Nose to win, and I put a little bet on Your Nose to show.'"

"The stable boy, he knows,' butts in a tout, 'and he says 'It's His Nose by a length sure; seen 'em run in.'"

"Who win? Horse named. Blow Hard; he win by a nose."—San Francisco Chronicle.

MINNESOTA PLANS
BIG HOME COMINGTERRITORIAL PIONEERS ARE TO GATHER IN TWIN CITIES

TO MEET DURING FAIR WEEK

Old Residents of Gopher State to Renew Acquaintances on Anniversary of Semi-Centennial

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 31.—The Minnesota Territorial Pioneer association is engaged in forwarding a movement which will serve to write more plainly the historical pages of the early history of the state, and will engage the attention and enlist the sympathies of every loyal Minnesotan. The association, which numbers on its role some 3,000 of the honored older citizens of the state, is ambitious to bring to pass a semi-centennial celebration of the admission of Minnesota to the union in 1858, to be held in September, 1908.

It is now proposed to expand the regular fall meeting of the state fair, into a two weeks' grand state celebration of the semi-centennial and to supplement that idea with a great home-coming time, during which the sons and daughters of Minnesota in other states, will wend their way home for a visit to the North Star state.

The first preliminary work has been entirely successful and gives the promoters of the movement reassuring hopes of success. Public spirit seems to be readily interested and substantial aid has been volunteered by men whose prominence and efficiency in all that concerns the public welfare have been proven on many occasions of public and semi-public activity.

Mass Meeting Planned.

While the work now being done is along the line of the distribution of literature of newspaper announcements and of personal conference, the association has decided to hold a great mass meeting on the state fair grounds on Sept. 5, 1907, to add the necessary impetus for the realization of the idea of the semi-centennial and home-coming time for the year 1908.

All old pioneers and old settlers and persons interested, are asked to attend the grand mass meeting to be held Sept. 5, and so lend their influence to carry into operation a plan which is simple and practicable, and which will bring much good to the state.

Man Arrested

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 31.—The alertness of Mrs. Rose Barline prevented her daughter Annie's elopement with Joseph Pascallali yesterday at St. Paul, and the couple are now behind bars in the Ramsey county jail, instead of enjoying a honeymoon at Duluth, as was anticipated.

Annie, a pretty dark-eyed Italian maiden, 17 years of age, became infatuated with Joseph, who is some years older, and for some time has been trying to secure a marriage license, but it was refused because she was not of age and her parents would not consent.

A few days ago the couple disappeared and Mrs. Barline complained to County Attorney O'Brien. She asserted that Pascallali was attempting to elope with her daughter, and she showed the county attorney a photograph of Pascallali with his alleged wife and child, taken in Italy. Pascallali claims that the picture is that of his sister.

The couple were located in St. Paul just as they were about to depart for Duluth, and hauled into the police court, both charged with disorderly conduct.

NORTHWEST BRIEFS

CAMBRIDGE, Minn.—Mrs. A. H. Southerland, wife of Judge of Probate A. H. Southerland, of this city, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ketchum, of Minneapolis, died at her home here.

HARVEY, Ia.—Roy Wilson was badly injured and barely escaped death in a runaway accident while plowing corn with a riding cultivator. When the horses started to run away the boy stuck to the cultivator until it ran over and caught up a field harrow, which knocked him off and fell upon him. One tooth penetrated his side deeply in the region of the kidneys, while others tore the flesh from his neck and shoulders.

GOOD THUNDER, Minn.—Two months ago citizens petitioned the Milwaukee railway for a new depot at this place. At midnight last night a fire alarm was turned in and the old depot building was saved from destruction after considerable damage had been done to the interior. The fire started in two different apartments and was the work of an incendiary, it is believed.

CAMBRIDGE, Minn.—The crops in Isanti county are going to give a good average yield this year. All small grains look very promising so far, and the hay crop, which is now all harvested, is exceptionally good. Potatoes, which are the staple product of this section, will yield a little better than the average.

While driving home last evening Lawyer C. L. Hood had a narrow escape from a serious runaway. He was driving along Main street about 6 o'clock when one of the wheels of his rig dropped off, scaring the team of colts he was driving. Only the timely assistance of several bystanders averted a serious runaway.

When the colts were finally quieted it was discovered that the burr had been worn and Mr. Hood was forced to hire another rig before proceeding to his home south of the city.
